Transport Information

The North-West T-way

The North-West T-way is a bus only road that will provide fast, frequent and direct buses between Rouse Hill Town Centre and Parramatta, Blacktown and Parklea. T-way buses operate end to end services as well as "feeder" services from the surrounding suburbs. This network helps commuters, shoppers, school children, people visiting doctors, medical centres and hospitals, students and other passengers to get around their local community and beyond.

The T-way service has been extended to include the Rouse Hill Town Centre interchange.

Rouse Hill Town Centre Interchange is located at the end of the North-West T-way on the corner of Windsor Rd and Rouse Hill Dr, right at the western end of Main St.

Direct Services to Rouse Hill Town Centre

The T-way bus network provides direct services from Rouse Hill Town Centre to an extensive number of metropolitan wide and local destinations. See overleaf for details of the destinations for all direct bus services.

Frequent bus services operate between the Rouse Hill Town Centre, Westmead railway station and Parramatta Transport Interchange. At Parramatta, routes T63, T64 and T65 operating to RHTC depart from STAND B4 at the Parramatta Transport Interchange. The Interchange provides a transport gateway to Western Sydney, linking bus services with the rail network, the Western Sydney Transitway Network and other transport services such as taxis and coaches.
